

Sub E
04

21. (Amended) A method of inhibiting in a mammal a dermal inflammatory response comprising administering to the mammal a therapeutically effective amount of lactoferrin product, said amount being sufficient to reduce inflammation-induced Langerhans cell migration or accumulation of dendritic cells in lymph nodes.